

Conecta Fiction

The sixth edition of the international event has awarded 14 prizes among the 31 finalist projects that participated in its 5 pitching categories.

The Conecta Fiction & Entertainment 2022 awards ceremony was held this afternoon, where the winners of the various awards given to the projects participating in the five pitching categories organised for this year's edition were announced.

The categories are Copro Series (series and short form series), High-End Series (high-budget projects), Docudrama Series (dramatized documentaries), Feelgood Formats (original entertainment formats with a "feel good" component) and Pitch Clips(call by ALMA-Spanish scriptwriters guild).

The gala, held at 19:30 in the auditorium of the Palacio de Congresos El Greco in Toledo and hosted by the presenter Manuel Feijoo and the event director Géraldine Gonard, was preceded by the panel "Showrunners coming from Europe and America" with the participation of two key figures of the international audiovisual industry: the Spanish director Paco Cabezas and the British scriptwriter Ben Harris, with the moderation of Richard Middleton, renowned journalist and editor of the specialist British magazine TBI.
